Basis of Franchise.

After a general discussion the Franchise Committee discussed the question of the number of voters in the provincial legislatures and whether the basis of franchise should be broadened. As to the general basis of franchise, views were freely expressed by the delegates. In the Simon report the extension of the franchise to include 10 per cent. of the adult population was recommended. The view was advanced to-day that the increase might be up to 25 per cent, and the suggestion was made that such a proposal might be accepted for period of 10 years, subject to a review every decade.

"Election of a Voice."

There was some further discussion on the Mukhi idea that groups of, say, 20 villagers should elect one of their number to go on the voters' register as their "voice." The general sense of the meeting was that whilst the basis of franchise should be governed by what was practicable by expert franchise to the qualifications of voters it was felt that an expert Committee should be asked to ensure as far as possible the same proportion of voters to the population in the dif seats in the Upper and Lower followed the distribution of the ferent communities, thus remov- Houses between the Federating magnificent-collection of toys of ing to a large extent the dis. ## TRADE FORECAST.

YEAR.

The trade forecast of the Federacan firms or individuals who de tion of British Industries for the sire to establish connections with fourth quarter of 1930, published merchants in Hong Kong and who on November 3, contains the reinvite correspondence. No respon- assurance that, although Great Brisibility is assumed as to the stand. tain is experiencing a trade depression more severe than any since Bul Further information may be ob- 1920-21, our trade has by comparison with certain other countries been only moderately affected. In the United States of America, for instance, the setback in the rate of industrial activity has been one of the most pronounced ever recorded, and catalogue may be seen at the with a drop of something like 30 to 40 per cent. in the level of produc-

> Though the forecast is guarded Ca seems almost certain that some of the most persistent and long-term causes of our industrial ills are Pig likely to undergo a permanent change for the better. The gold situation, for example, is becoming easier, and the credit situation less rigid. Long-term interest rates are beginning to move towards a lower level, while the pressure of borrowing on account of both international indebtedness and distressed industrial borrowers is beginning to relax. Finally, the disastrous collapse in | cr American business and commerce Nathan Zucker, 12 West 36th may hasten the day when that coun-Street, New York, N.Y., desires to try will come to realise that an economic policy of "splendid isolation" is not consistent with her own A.P.W. Economists notwithstand- L ing, the Federation believes that D the present world condition may be D diagnosed as one of general over- E production.

After The Slump. Commenting on the above the F Financial Times says:—Many people | G are asking themselves when the G world-wide slump in commodity H prices is going to end and when the slow process of recovery is likely I to begin. Some authorities assure us that the bottom of the trough of depression has already been reached, and that henceforward a steady revival in commodity values and in business activity can confidently be reckoned upon. But after the disappointing and disquieting experiences of the past year it would obviously be unwise to assume that nothing can prevent a steady and sustained recovery in the consumption of basic raw materials, or in the purchasing power of the peoples ] of all countries. As the British Federation of Industries reminds us in its quarterly forecast released for publication to-day, nothing can prevent the coming winter from being a period of difficulty in countries where the ranks of the unemployed are rapidly being swollen by fresh recruits. Chief Manager, But when seasonal depression in most industries come to an end, as it should do in the early spring, an improvement in world conditions may reasonably be expected.

The velocity of the economic recovery will depend upon several factors, such as the capacity of an impoverished world to absorb at present unwanted surplus stocks of raw materials. It is at least one excuse for hopefulness that the abnormally low prices such as rule at present provide the best and most powerful Mimulus to an increase in the demand of goods of every description: Another cheerful feaof a continued fall in long-term rates of interest. Cheap money, the Federation of British Industries and history seems likely to repeat ed than ever before.

CHINESE MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.

Invalid Without Consent of Parents.

Kuala Lumpur, Nov. 21. Interesting evidence concerning Chinese marriage customs was given by Mr. W. D. Horne, Protector of Chinese, in the police court before Mr. G. A. de C. de Moubray yesterday when a middleaged Chinese, Kwong Yau-lum, and an elderly woman, Lei Kwai-pho, alias Wong Yoon, alias Ku'an Kwu, were charged with having imported a Chinese woman from China and trafficked in women.

Thong Nyoh-yin, a Hakka widow with three children, said that she met the first accused in her native village, Tham Sui, in China. told her she could get $3 a day by tapping rubber trees, so on July 12 she left Hong Kong, subsequently larriving in Sungel Besi where she stayed in the house of the second accused. Both the accused threatened to strike her if she left the houses.

After staying there for over a month a man named Sen Chek was brought to see her and witness was told by the second accused that as the man had paid an advance of $10 she would have to go with him. Before leaving witness saw Sen Chek handing to the accused $100 and receiving a document in exchange.

"His Majesty's Choir Children" to Sing

C anada is honored—and delighted—by the visit to the Dominion of the children of His Majesty's Savoy Chapel Choir, composed of twelve hoy supranes, the pick of England's best youthful singers, all of them under sixteen years of age. It is the first occasion in the 700-year history of the Chapel that a King of England has given permismission to the children of the choir to leave Great Britain. They will take part in the Chrishmas Festival to be held this your at Lucerns-in-Quebec, and they will also give a recital at the Hoyal York Hotel, Tolento, December 23. Those who associate the choir with strictly church music will get a surprise, for programmes to be rendered by the boys include not only this type of music but also some of the best knowled secular songs, glees and part songs presented in solo, who or charal form. When they sing church music they are garbed in staflet and gold costumes surmounted by the quaint Tudor ruff, exactly as they appear upon festival occasions in London They come to Canada as representatives of an institution which typides the best traditions of choral singing in a country where choral singing is un excelled in any part of the world

Mr. Paterson was in support, on the grounds that it would be wasteful to erect a very permanent structure in the middle of a jail shortly to be abolished. He asked the Chairman whether it was economic to act in this way?

The Chairman replied that after due consideration it had been considered politic to continue with the work. No doubt the Retrenchment Committee would go into it.

Mr. Paterson: They will. Replying to the Hon. Mr. Owen Hughes, the Chairman said the machine was not yet working.

Mr. Owen Hughes reminded the meeting that the vote was turned down at the 1929 Budget meeting. It had been agreed after examination that the printing shop was totally unfit for work, on health grounds. In a full year practically nothing had been done. building of a printing shop should have been pressed forward as quick Phar Lap has also been a gold of all stake money won and his share, therefore, would be £31,242, Mr. D. J. Bavis (owner) receiving £15,621. And all this for the initial outlay of 160 gns. Phar Lap has traversed 88 miles one furlong to gain his laurels.

English statists have estimated that Gordon Richards, the champion jockey of England, earns £10,000 annually in fees alone, but presents from generous owners bring his income up to £25,000 a

Gordon Richards

From Lord Glanely alone Richards receives £2,500 a year for first call on his services. He also gets £2,000 annually from patrons of S. H. Darling'a stable for second call, while in addition he is entitled to a retainer of £500 a year from another stable.

F. Fox, now more than 40 years of age, also holds healthy retainers, one of them being £2,500 a year for first call from Trainer Fred Darling. He is also in demand by other prominent stables, and it is estimated that on the year's operations his earnings do not fall far short of those credited to Richards.

At one time Fox was first jockey for Norman Scobie, but this season the Australian trainer has to play second fiddle.

Tommy Weston, third on the winning list of English jockeys at present, receives something like £2,000 a year from Lord Derby for first call.

Riding for the Aga Khan must be remunerative in and M. Beary, who receives $2,500, must have done well during the current season, in spite of the fact that he missed the winning ride on Bienheim in the English Derby and Ruston Pasha in the Eclipse Stakes. The Aga Khan, however, is a liberal owner, and Beary would have profited largely this season in spite of the pancity of wins. Carslake's Position.

When it is read that the former Victorian Jockey "Brownie" Carslake obtains 22,000 a year as first Jorkey to Mr. J. B. Joel, and 4500 a year from Mrs. Chester Beattye for second call, it is easily understandable why Caralake gave up training to return to the saddle. H. Wragge, fourth on the list of winning jookeys/ is under contract to Sir Hugo Cunliffe Owen. Owing to the fact that Sir Hugo has no horses of claus this season, most of Wragge's successes have been scotred on horses from other stables. Craftsmen.

There is a conspiratorial air about the narrow streets of Seven Dials which not even modern improvements have been able entirely to dissipate, says a writer in the Morning Post. An atmosphere of secrecy and bygone deeds of violence pervades the quarter still, and is particularly noticeable in Little White Lion Street, where I found Mr. Sam Rex, last of a long line of Devon armourers and, it is believed, the only swordmaker and armourer still plying his trade in

As you enter the little dim shop, built perhaps a century and a half ago, it is not difficult to imagine the part such a place would have played, say, during the Civil War when the Paliament began to fit the close-shorn apprentices of London with helmet and buckler, or to visualise Gordon rioters raiding the shop for swords and daggers in preparation for their attack on Newgate prison.

In a dark corner is piled a heap of swords of all periods, their hilts twisted into a variety of fantastic shapes. What light there is gleams brightest in the breastplates and helmets hung side by side round the walls, and a stack of tall halberds, pikes and spears points threateningly at the underside of a large stuffed crocodile slung incongruously from the ceiling.

In The Workshop. In the inner workshop is a battered bench anvil and vice on which lie a number of short-handled hammers of all sizes—the craftsman's most important tools. Mr. Rex informed me that practically ever piece of armour in the shop was of Delhi Durbar, he was presented to his own manufacture, hammered from sheet steel and polished to a dull, mellow silver.

"I learned the craft from my father, and he learned it from his father," he said. "For many generations my folks have been Devonshire armourers, though I have carried on the craft in London all my life and am, so far as I know, the only one left."

Mr. Rex showed me some genuine Desperately and breathlessly specimens of old armour, but it was Whyte dashed into the doctor's impossible to tell the difference be-"Whatever have you been doing, recently made. A remarkable feature of Mr. Rex's works is that he uses no patterns, and has never had to have recourse to antiquarian designs.
